

About Lewis Carter

Lewis Carter is a dynamic performer, choreographer, and educator whose passion for storytelling through music and movement has inspired audiences across stages and classrooms alike. A true “triple threat,” Lewis has showcased his talents as a singer, dancer, and actor in numerous productions, including national showcases and regional theater performances. His creative vision and stage presence continue to set him apart as a powerful voice in the performing arts.

As a Los Angeles native, Lewis has performed at legendary venues such as the Apollo Theater and the Wilshire Ebell and has shared stages with artists including Teena Marie, Tank, and Snoop Dogg. Beyond the spotlight, he dedicates his energy to uplifting young performers through his work in elementary education, where he teaches dance, acting, and teamwork through artistic expression.

Lewis also danced professionally for the WNBA’s Los Angeles Sparks for three seasons, where he brought his signature energy and creativity to large audiences, combining athleticism with artistry to electrify the crowd.